SUIT AGAINST CITY
IS BEGUN BY STATE

WRIT OF MANDAMUS SERVED
ON CITY CLERK TO COMPEL
PAYMENT OF $3,193.

RE-ASSESSMENT SNAG

Action Instituted to Secure Decision as to Which Party Shall Stand
Cost of 1911 Reassessment.

An alternative writ of mandamus was served by District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie yesterday afternoon on City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund, under the direction of Walter C. Owen, making the city of Janesville a defendant in an action of the state before the supreme court to recover the amount which the state claims is due from the city for the expense of re-assessment made in 1911. The amount in controversy is $2,696.50, plus the interest of $342.82.

A special charge against the city for the item has been included in the secretary of state's certification to the county clerk for three successive years. In 1913 the state took legal action to compel the county to make a collection. The case was tried in the circuit court for Dane county and resulted in a decision in favor of Rock county. This left the matter entirely between the city and the state.

The writ served yesterday reviews in detail the re-assessment proceedings from the time of their institution by H. L. Willett, city clerk, August 28th, 1911, until the present time. The city clerk is enjoined to place upon the next tax roll of the city the sum of $3,193.73, or to show cause for the contrary before the state supreme court on November 17th. It is expected that the city will request an extension of time from Attorney Owen to prepare its case.

City Attorney Willett H. Dunwiddie, to whom the writ was referred by the city officials, issued the following statement regarding the matter: "This is an action by the state of Wisconsin against the city of Janesville to collect the salaries of the men employed by the state to conduct the last reassessment. It has nothing whatever to do with the assessment itself, but only involves the question as to whom shall pay the bill. We take the attitude that the assessors appointed by the state were state officials or agents and that they should be paid by the state. We hold further that the legislature has no power to invest a commission, like the tax commission with the power to levy taxes upon the people of Janesville. If the tax commission can be given such power, then all other commission and administrative boards created by the legislature are appointed by the state. This means that non-elective officers, appointed by the state, can spend unlimited sums of the people's money without any direct responsibility to the taxpayers. It may be that the court will hold such a grant to be within the legislative power, and if it does, Janesville will have to pay this bill. We took the position that it was our duty to get a ruling from the supreme court before paying so large a sum, when there is so much question about its legality. The action is brought by the attorney general directed in the supreme court and an order is sought directing the city clerk to extend this amount upon the tax roll. We return the date of the writ to Nov. 17, but we will not be able to reach it at that time."

Believe Me I
Eat Everything

For I Know a Stuart's Dyspepsia
Tablet Will Digest Any Meal at Any Time.

How often do we see men who can not eat and how often do we hear other men boasting of their abilities to eat.

The secret of all health is digestion. The secret of digestion is the juices which are supplied by the body to separate the ingredients needed from those that are of no use to the system.

The Pessimist—"Your appetite disgusts me. You eat like a giant sloth." The Optimist—"Believe me, I give my body what it tells me to give it, and whether it be midnight or noon I always obey appetite and then I eat a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet."

When a heavy meal has been eaten the entire body is called upon to furnish the digestive organs with forces to take care of it. The more the strain the weaker become the forces to take care of the next meal as well. A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet aids Nature in her own way. These little tablets are filled with the very ingredients and essences so needful to every normal and perfect stomach.

One quality or ingredient of a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet will digest 3,000 times its weight in food. Think if you can what a big help this means to a depleted digestion. Other ingredients aid in building up the digestive juices and blood. The stomach and intestines have their duties lightened and thus irritation, soreness and raw linings are permitted to be cured by the system naturally, quickly, harmlessly.

Thousands of dyspeptic and stomach sufferers would be glad to tell you what Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have done for them. This is what makes these tablets sold in every drug store in this country, price 50 cents.

To anyone wishing a free trial of these tablets please address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., and a small sample package will be mailed free.

Appetite Follows
Good Digestion

Nearly everyone indulges their appetite and the digestive organs are abused, resulting in a congestion of poisonous waste that clogs the bowels and causes much misery and distress.

The most effective remedy to correct this condition is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a natural, pleasant-tasting remedy, gentle yet positive in action, and quickly relieves indigestion, constipation, sick headache, belching, etc. Drug stores sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and thousands of homes in the indispensable family remedy. For a free trial bottle write Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 461 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

BLACK SKUNK FOUND IN CAFE SATURDAY;
KILLED YESTERDAY

William Foss at Foss Restaurant on West Milwaukee Street Has Hard Time Capturing Animal.

After futile attempts to corner a black skunk that had found access and made its home in the basement of the Foss Cafe on West Milwaukee street Saturday, William Foss, proprietor of the restaurant, succeeded yesterday afternoon in killing the animal, and selling its pelt to a furrier.

Saturday last, the skunk was first noticed in the basement. Later, following a chase in which attempts to corner the beast were unsuccessful, the employee at the cafe located the nuisance in the basement of the store. Fearing that the goods stored in the cellar would be spoiled, if the animal were allowed to remain in his comfortable quarters, Mr. Foss was determined to chase him into the front of the basement and under the sidewalk grating, where it was finally caught. The animal was of good size, and possessed a rich, dark fur, with a white stripe over its head.

The skunk incidentally became quite an attraction to passers-by for quite a distance yesterday, even though it could be seen when the evening winds yesterday blew down Milwaukee street, it was an easy matter to judge that a skunk was not far away.

Skunk Raising Unique Industry. The industry of raising skunks by Mr. Fairbert, who lives three miles north of Beloit on the Afton road is drawing the attention of people all over this section. Mr. Fairbert, a "herd" of thirty animals can now be seen on his farm. Mr. Fairbert expects his novel stock enterprise to develop into a business. The object of his raising skunks is to breed them for their valuable pelts. He conducts the business as a sideline to farming, but is now giving much of his attention to the raising of the idea originated with him.

A number of the skunks were caught by him last winter. His stock has increased from these few to thirty, and quite a miniature stock farm.

A Good Profit. "Will there be profit in the business? Yes, indeed," declares the skunk breeder. "Pelts of pure black skunks bring as high as $8.50. The common striped ones sell for less, have both kinds in my stock, but by killing off and selling pelts of the striped ones this winter I will have a herd of pure black animals to breed from for the future."

The skunks are not hard to care for, according to Fairbert. They eat food that abounds on the farm and are readily kept in good condition. Fairbert has developed skunk raising to a fine art. To keep the animals in captivity he has a special wired-in fence which he says soon will have to be enlarged to meet the exigencies of his growing business.

Tame as Kittens. That he can raise skunks without raising an odor, too, is the declaration of Fairbert. "People generally associate skunks with a disagreeable smell," says the skunk breeder. "But if the animals are handled properly there is absolutely no trouble on this score. My skunks are as tame and docile as kittens. I pick them up and fondle them just as I would tame rabbits or guinea pigs."

SCHOOL "SPEED" SIGNS WERE PLACED TODAY TO CAUTION AUTO DRIVERS

Hereafter Janesville auto drivers should use care that at passing school grounds from any side that they do not exceed the speed of eight miles per hour. Today Superintendent of Streets Goodmun ordered workmen to place twenty-five yellow signs at the corners of the grounds. The state law provides a severe penalty for a violation of the statutes.

Work on the Pleasant street sewer will be completed this week, including the manhole at Chatham street. All the fountains in the city have been repaired and have been built up, after the drain pipes were cleaned out.

AMERICAN EXODUS
FROM WAR DANGERS

STARTED IN BERLIN AS SOON
AS TROOPS BEGAN MOVING.

SCENES OF INTEREST

J. Francis Connors Writes of Situation in Germany in Graphic Manner.

(By J. Francis Connors)
Almost before a week had ensued after the declaration of war, the American embassy in Berlin found its work enormously increased trying to assist the American tourists in their desire to leave the country as soon as possible. This work of the past few days has been enhanced when they learned that all the railroads were in the hands of the military bureau for the mobilization of soldiers. Immediately the cable offices were besieged by all, trying to send messages to their relatives and friends, so as to relieve their anxiety concerning the situation and also to inform them as to their whereabouts and safety in the country. These cables were allowed to be sent in the German language only, and were not guaranteed to be delivered. Several of these cables did not succeed in reaching the states.

At the same time nearly all of the Americans residing in Berlin received messages from home bearing the same import: "Come home immediately." Some succeeded in leaving on the last train for Antwerp, and others were declared with France, and unfortunately for them, they had the most difficult obstacles of all to contend with. Before boarding the trains these passengers purchased American money in Germany, correctly realizing that German money did not have any value at the time in Belgium. And sadder to relate the American money also was valueless, and these unlucky tourists had their troubles increased to a large extent.

One party left on the last train for Belgium with eight hundred dollars in American money, and this was not worth a cent in Belgium at the time. Through the kindness and hospitality of several hotel keepers in Antwerp most of our citizens were allowed to put up at these hotels without any remuneration other than a promise of payment at their earliest convenience.

All of these passengers were hoping to secure accommodations on a Red Star liner leaving Antwerp that week for America. This particular steamer would have been held several times larger than our largest number of persons who had hoped to leave on this boat. Naturally thousands were disappointed, and as a result many took that chance of reaching a Cunard liner sailing from Liverpool.

Meanwhile other tourists, who were in different parts of Germany, broke out into looting and looting, came into Berlin on the few trains running from Austria at the time. The trains that have heretofore made this journey in seven hours now make the same trip in two hours, making the same trip, so that these travelers had many discomforts en route.

The American embassy, which in time of peace had its office hours from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., was kept open until 5, and also in the evenings.

It was crowded with our citizens trying to secure advice and funds in order to reach home. As a mail service was cut off, the time many were absolutely without funds, and the government was unprepared to help its citizens more than an occasional loan in time of peace, it would have been very kind of Mrs. Gerard, who furnished transportation and funds out of her own purse to the stranded ones until the noteworthy and long looked for arrival of the "Tennessee," with its consignment of gold sent to relieve this condition. For her kindness in this time of need Mrs. Gerard certainly deserved the sincere thanks of all the Americans who were so unfortunate as to be caught without funds.

The embassy at this time was the only recourse for cable communication to America, and the cables were kept open until 5, and also in the evenings. To send a cable a deposit of two marks per word was required, and private cables only were accepted without code words. To insure its delivery the cables were sent to the embassy, including Ambassador Gerard's signature, so that it was indeed an expense to cable for assistance, financial or otherwise. The time taken to receive a cable from the embassy was from seven to fourteen days, and if one could have read all the messages sent, each containing these particular words, "Send money immediately," he would have to laugh at the situation. The serious nature of the situation, read about thirty messages on one visit, and almost without exception these words comprised the contents. Some of the senders used tact, and consigned their messages in few words, others did not, at their added expense.

The embassy succeeded in its negotiations with the government to run special trains over the border in Holland, after the first mobilization, and seats were at a premium on these trains. Many persons preferred remaining in Berlin until they procured steamship accommodations, as it was known that Holland was held over by the Germans. The Americans always gathered on Wilhelm Platz, before the embassy, to obtain the latest news regarding the departure of special trains, and also to receive citizenship papers, passports and the ambassador's signature recommending the bearer for transportation out of Germany. These also had to be signed by the German foreign bureau.

The special trains usually left from the Charlottenburg station, and before their departure hundreds of Americans would throng the depot platform requesting the passengers to carry letters to their loved ones, and also to do similar favors. The ambassador and his staff made a point to attend the departure of these trains and also gave words of assurance as to the travelers' safety, passing along the platform, and bidding goodbye to all persons. The Berlin newspaper offices usually sent a number of copies along

HAD COUGH
SINCE CHILDHOOD

Mrs. Wm. Hohmann, 2764 Lincoln Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I suffered with catarrh of bronchial tubes and had a terrible cough ever since a child. 'I would sit up in bed with pillows propped up behind me, but still the cough would not let me sleep. 'I am well now and cured of a chronic cough and sore throat. I cannot tell you how grateful I am, and I cannot thank Peruna enough. It has cured where doctors have failed and I talk Peruna wherever I go, recommending it to everybody. People who think they have consumption better give it a trial.'"

I thought and everybody else that I had consumption. "I am well now and cured of a chronic cough and sore throat. I cannot tell you how grateful I am, and I cannot thank Peruna enough. It has cured where doctors have failed and I talk Peruna wherever I go, recommending it to everybody. People who think they have consumption better give it a trial."

requesting the passengers to inform their friends in America a little of the German side of the war, which differed quite radically from the European viewpoint, and all of these returning tourists departed with the resolution that upon reaching their native soil they would do their utmost to promote a feeling of fair play, because at that time very little was favorable to Germany was emanating through England and France to America. Newspapers had begun to reach Germany from America containing fabulous accounts of land and sea battles and unfortunately grossly exaggerated articles attributing unspeakable acts of cruelty on the part of the "barbaric" German soldiers. Naturally these falsehoods wounded their pride to a certain extent, and the Berlin newspapers published Germany's disappointment at the American newspapers giving credence to the enemy's accounts of their so-called atrocities, and were proven untrue.

A GREAT NECESSITY FOR PROMPT ACTION

Money Is Needed at Once to Purchase Food Supplies for Suffering Belgians.

The greatest war in all the world's history is now raging in continental Europe and Belgium, an innocent system of defense to take part in the terrible conflict. In area, Belgium is not one-fourth the size of Wisconsin. It has, however, before the war, a population of over seven million. Her people were peaceful, industrious, prosperous. She had given no cause of offense to any other nation. They asked for no help, and came to be permitted to work out their own destiny to have their nation's neutrality respected. That was denied them. Almost as suddenly as the great Chicago fire, the war's relentless waves rolled over her borders, her cities were taken and some of them sacked, her people scattered, homes were broken up, property was destroyed, and today desolation and sorrow prevail within her borders. The extent of the calamity that has overtaken Belgium is difficult to describe. Her people are homeless, with old men, weak, sorrowing women, and innocent, starving children, wandering, we might say, for food and shelter. Protection, food and friends.

Hundreds of thousands of her people are crossing her northern boundary into Holland, her southern boundary into France, and her eastern boundary into England, and those nations are doing all they possibly can to do under existing circumstances to care for this unfortunate refugees. Over one million Belgians are today homeless wanderers. They are the innocent victims of the wickedest and most unjustifiable war that ever cursed mankind. They should be looked upon and cared for as the wards of the civilized world.

Imagine the southern part of Wisconsin, with a population at least five times as dense as at present, occupied by foreign armies, our cities and villages under martial law, many of them in ruins, our fields laid waste, homes destroyed, hundreds of thousands of our people homeless wanderers with the road for food and the sky for a roof, and we get some faint conception of Belgium as it is today. The disaster that has overtaken that nation is so appalling words cannot fittingly describe it. We are called upon to help these people. Winter is coming on. They need food and clothing and shelter, and many of them are without even a country. We are enjoying the blessings of peace; they are in the wild, savage, relentless grip of war. We have not only the comforts, but many of the luxuries of life, they are without the absolute necessities. What will Janesville do?

The lists can be found at any one of the four banks at Beloit, at the store and the Gazette office. The money thus raised will be forwarded to the proper authorities who will use it to purchase supplies to be forwarded to Belgium and distributed through offices of the American mission at Brussels.

XMAS SEAL SALE TO START THANKSGIVING

Call For 1800 Campaign Managers in Milwaukee Has Been Issued—Big Sale Expected.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Milwaukee, Nov. 12.—A call for 1800 local campaign managers to take charge of the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals has been issued by Otto P. Bradley, campaign manager of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association. This constitutes the opening gun of the 1914 Seal Campaign by which the association will raise funds for continuing the work which is now saving so many lives in Wisconsin from consumption and other preventable diseases.

Splendid recognition was given the Wisconsin campaign by the Minnesota State Society in seeking to get the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association to take over the complete management of the Minnesota sale. "The proposition came too late for us to take over the entire campaign," said Mr. Bradley. "We are giving them advisory assistance, however, have just returned from two days in St. Paul consulting with the Minnesota officers and planning a campaign for them to carry out, and arrangements will probably be made for me to take charge of both states next year for the association."

Nearly as many seals were sold in Milwaukee as in the entire state of Minnesota last year. Rural schools in Wisconsin sold a higher sale on the average than villages of 500 population in Minnesota.

Thanksgiving Day has been set for the opening of the sale and it will close at Christmas. The sale will be pushed upon a purely business basis.

"LET'S BEAT BELOIT" PRINTED ON CARDS

High School Students Circulated Cards Today to Be Worn by Followers During Week—Interest High.

A large supply of good-sized diamond-shaped cards, with the words "Let's Beat Beloit" printed in blue on a white background were printed and circulated today among the enthusiastic gridiron followers, to be worn during the remainder of the week. There is an interest prevailing among high school students, both in this city and at Beloit, that has never been seen before. The contest Saturday, which hinges on no little, is being fought to light that everlasting rivalry that has always existed between Beloit and Janesville high schools.

That a band with twenty to thirty pieces is to be chartered by local followers Saturday now seems about certain. The subscription lists are growing in length every day. Students are beginning to realize what a victory over Beloit will mean, after the blue have suffered so many humiliating defeats already this season. But the fact that Beloit are rivals, is enough to consider when a victory can be looked up to.

The blue eleven worked yesterday afternoon, until they could see no ball before their eyes. New formations have been added to their long list of plays, and with a little practice they should be able to oppose Beloit with the least idea of being defeated. Janesville always fight this year all the harder. The first satisfactory victory uttered by Coach Curtis in this fall, were given out yesterday, in a statement in which he turns from defeat to victory. He is so conservative, that this statement comes as a surprise, and students are beginning to believe that the home team warriors possess a new confidence, and can play football a little.

Philipp Taylor and Harley Badger are to play Saturday. Taylor is recognized as being the hardest defensive player and tackler on the squad. He may play halfback. Cronin was unable to don a suit yesterday, because of illness. Dearborn, Cant, Stewart and Moore are in action. Badger will play left tackle, having been shifted from guard, his old position. Slavson is at left guard, and Dugan at center. "Muck" Schenck, the 180 pound right guard, will remain at his post, while Viney and Kakukske are working out at ends.

When you first meet George Chip two things are instantly noticeable about him—his square jaw and his massive hands. The jaw is just the jaw of a champion fighter. The hands are enormous, so big that no gloves will not begin to encase them. It is said that Chip did not know what size glove he did wear until he hit Broadway and decided to "bellup." Then he had to have a pair made for him. The ordinary five ounce glove must be stretched to the limit when the Newcastle boy forces his hands into them. But how can he hit them? Frank Klaus can tell about that.

Frank Farrell is in bad with the money men behind the New York Americans. And Frank can trace most of his troubles to Hal Chase, who is no longer in the folds of organized ball. But for Hal's seductive manner—or was it Farrell's lack of baseball sense?—the Yankees would have been a big money maker. Chase's actions demoralized two prospective winning clubs for the Yankees, but instead of punishing Chase, Farrell decided to stand with him. Farrell fired Griffith because of Chase, and disposed of Stallings or Stallings would have made a winning combination of the Yankees.

The recent election worked a big change in the fight map. California voters legislated professional fighting out of their state and voted in a law which permits only amateur bouts of four rounds. The new law takes effect in thirty days. This action makes Louisiana the only state in the union where professional bouts are legalized, but there are a few other places where boxers can go the marathon route. Twenty-round fights are staged in Denver, New Haven, Conn. and Dayton, O., but not as frequently as they were in California.

Bill O'Connell, a Chicago boxing instructor, is building a white hope to order. The material is Daniel Lee McMahon, seventeen, who now weighs 133 pounds. O'Connell has been giving McMahon private boxing lessons for about a year. The boy has grown steadily in that time, and has shown wonderful improvement as a boxer. McMahon has engaged in two minor fights and won both in gym workouts with Joe Mandot. He has displayed a piston-like left that caused Mandot a lot of trouble. Besides teaching the boy to box, O'Connell is seeing to it that his brain is being developed properly, and insists that he continue his studies at the Wendell Phillips high school, where he is a bright student.

Christy Mathewson is supposed to have a corner on pitching brains. Not that Matty is the only brainy hurler in the game, but twenty-five supposed to be a little bit above the rest in that department. And because of Matty's standing, we'd like to know just what he thought on reading in the papers the other day that Dick Rudolph of the Braves "has the best head of any pitcher in baseball." These words appeared under Matty's signature. It is doughnuts to red apple he tells the fellow who writes his stuff something the first time he sees him.

MILLER'S TEAM DEFEAT DORR'S QUINTELL FROM BELOIT LAST EVENING

The third Beloit bowling team, namely the Dorr's, invaded Janesville last night, and were sent home on a late car defeated Miller's bowlers won the contest by sixty pins, in an interesting match. Cook of the local quintet rolled high score of 187. Because of the fact that two large buckets of chocolate syrup were spilled on the runway of one of the alleys last evening, many of the scores rolled were low. Following is the individual counts:

	Beloit	Janesville
Redman	186	160
Collyer	145	205
Miller	125	162
Hannan	157	144
Cohn	116	175
Total, 2390.
Osborn	166	164
Kneek	132	174
Cook	187	183
Merrick	133	178
Brown	130	182
Total, 2450.

ATHLETICS TO GET BOOM AT GEORGE WASHINGTON "U"

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, Nov. 11.—An attempt to revive athletics at George Washington University, formerly Columbian University and one of the oldest in the country, will be made tonight. The athletic organization is to be reformed. The year's athletic program will be outlined. Football will probably not be attempted.

Amusements

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"Bringing Up Father."

Folks who like to be entertained in a manner befitting modern style of amusements will surely find more than their quota in the latest singing and dancing comedy, "Bringing Up Father," which will be the attraction at the Myers theatre on Thursday, Nov. 12. The new piece, which is in three acts, was suggested by the popular cartoon of George McManus. All the interesting features of the original pictures have been retained and other details added to help make one of the best productions of its kind in the theatre in many seasons. In handling the subject the authors have not deviated from the path of human nature. One might think that the types introduced are of the exaggerated kind and drawn for the purpose of squeezing humor and employing absurd situations. On the contrary the characters are real flesh and blood creations and capable of attracting attention in any environment and in addition the development of their characters and dispositions supplies an excellent moral.

"The House of Bondage."

Tonight will be the last appearance of "The House of Bondage," the white slave picture which has attracted so much attention at the Myers theatre. A good-sized audience witnessed this picture last evening and were much impressed by the situations as shown and the moral to be derived from the tale.

AT THE APOLLO.

A Jack London Picture Tonight.

Hobart Bosworth, whose work on both stage and screen has brought him a wide fame, will be at the Apollo in his six real production of Jack London's "An Odyssey of the North." He was practically the first actor to know what acting was on stage to take up the moving picture.

HOBERT BOSWORTH

work, and the loss to the former was the gain of the latter, since he brought to it a magnificent physique and screen presence, a breadth of technique and a fineness of artistry quite uncommon. He soon made a place for himself as a leading man in romantic and heroic roles and gained a hold on the public affections which has constantly grown until with his advent into the feature film end of the profession as a producer and actor in the Jack London productions, he stands acknowledged today as the leading screen actor in the world.

His "Wolf Larson" in London's "Sea Wolf," the first London book he adapted, was so fine and so true that Mr. London himself pays eloquent tribute to it, saying that it has taken the place in his mind the "Wolf Larson" of his own imagination formerly occupied. Mr. Bosworth thinks that "Naass" in "An Odyssey of the North" has given him the finest opportunity of his life, and his countless admirers, knowing his heroic form and striking genius, have no doubt of the superb results he will attain in the interpretation of such a role.

Beatrice Morelle's Parisian Maids will present a high class entertainment. Their singing will be of a high order and reliable.

The greatest artist of her kind, "The Mysterious Lady in the Black Mask," has been secured at a great expense, direct from the big time circuit of the Pacific coast. She is the most accomplished equestrienne before the public. With her beautiful soprano voice she renders the works of great masters as well as popular songs.

Another act will be announced tomorrow.

CAINVILLE CENTER

Cainville Center, Nov. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Townsend announce the arrival of a nine pound daughter Oct. 21st, at their home, 4813 Spaulding avenue, Chicago.

Henry Gardner and wife visited over Sunday night at Geo. Townsend's. They returned to Evansville via Albany, and spent Thursday night with Mrs. Gardner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bump.

Miss Elizabeth Ogden is spending a few days with her nephew and family. Lessie Townsend and family and Miss Ogden visited in Janesville Sunday.

A C. choir practice Saturday night at W. B. Andrews.

LOUISA L. RUTTY DIED AT BROOKLYN

Brooklyn, Nov. 10.—Louisa L. Rutty was born in the state of New York Sept. 18, 1841, and died at her home in this village Wednesday, Nov. 4, after a prolonged illness. She came with her parents to Wisconsin when only a girl, where she has since resided. She was married to Philip Wackman. To this union two children were born, Ellen Bubb, who died March 8, 1914, and Charles Wackman of this village. The funeral services were held Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edson Brown. She left for Madison Saturday, where she studies music.

Mrs. Charlotte Fisher and son of Janesville spent over Saturday and Sunday at the home of her daughter here.

Mrs. Vera Gransee and children of Janesville were visitors at the parents' home here.

Mrs. Lucy Goldsmith accompanied O. C. Long and family to Footville Thursday afternoon to attend the bazaar given by the ladies of the Christian church.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cory returned from a brief visit to Baraboo, and left for Port Orange, Florida, Saturday, to remain through the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. George Vitter of Stoughton spent Sunday at the Geo. Thornton home.

Mrs. A. J. Berge attended the annual convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs at Racine last week.

Hurst Barnett of Lawrence College is visiting his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Barnett.

CENTER

Center, Nov. 9.—Fall work is progressing owing to the ideal weather. We need not seek southern climes to winter thus far.

Mr. and Mrs. George Robson and daughter, Margaret of Bellingham, Washington, who have been visiting relatives in Footville and vicinity, left for Evansville Friday, where they took the early train Saturday morning for their western home. Mrs. Robson is better known as Miss Hettie Dann, a former Footville girl.

Mrs. Mae Fuller went to Beloit Saturday to spend over Sunday with her mother and sister, who are both very poorly.

George Brown of East Center was a week end visitor with his son Fred and wife, of North Fond du Lac.

Miss Doris Miller of Edgerton spent the latter part of the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edson Brown. She left for Madison Saturday, where she studies music.

Mrs. Charlotte Fisher and son of Janesville spent over Saturday and Sunday at the home of her daughter here.

MESSINES—A small town of West Flanders, Belgium, ten miles south of Ypres, near the French frontier. Its some 2,000 inhabitants are engaged in lace-making and weaving. A school for the education of the children of Belgian soldiers is established there, the foundation of which was part of a Benedictine abbey of the 11th century. The town was devastated by the Normans, and has been captured and burned many times.

PASSCHENDAELE—A small Belgian town, twelve miles northeast of Ypres and eight miles southwest of Roulers, on a height near the source of the Mandelbeke, an affluent of the Lys. Lace, chicory and oil are manufactured. The town has a population of about 4,000.

SEVASTOPOL—Practically destroyed in 1856 during the Crimean war, this Russian possession on the southwest arm of the Crimea is one of the most modern cities bordering on the Black Sea today. It is situated, amphitheatrical-like, on a chalky cliff which rises from a height of about 20 feet near the water to about 150 feet above the sea in its upper part. The town today has broad streets and modern buildings, while quays and tramways, flanked by huge granaries, line its bay. It has important manufacturing and ship-building plants. The siege of the town is one of the most memorable in history. It was invested by the French, English, Sardinians and Turks in 1854, but held out until Sept. 8, 1855. Its cemetery contains the bones of about 127,000 victims of that war. The population today is about 56,000.

WLADYSLAWOW—This Russian town of about 5,000 inhabitants lies across the Prussian border, forty-five miles north of Suwalki and forty-three miles north of east of Insterburg. The Szeszuppe river, which for some distance flows between Russia and Prussia, separates it from the Prussian town of Schirwindt. Several breweries are operated, and an extensive commerce in fine cloth and hides is carried on. The environs, near the village of Bialohowienstow, are dense forests containing many of the ancient, sacred groves of the pagan Lithuanians. The town was named for King Vladislav IV, and at one time belonged to Prussia, under the name of Neustadt.

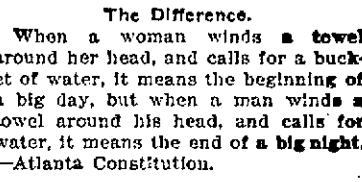

GOSTYNIN—A town in Russian Poland, fourteen miles southwest of Ploet, on the Seryva river, an affluent of the Vistula. The town has a population of about 7,000. Demetrius Schiskoy, deposed czar of Moscow, was confined in the citadel of Gostynin until his death, at the beginning of the seventeenth century.

RAICOROD—A small town of southwestern Russia, 21 miles south of southwest of Tcherkazy and 185 miles east of north of Odessa, on the Tiasmyn river, an affluent of the Dniester. The inhabitants, about 1,200, are engaged chiefly in the manufacturing of sugar. There is some commerce in grain and cattle.

KITTY—An Australian town, a majority of whose 7,000 inhabitants are Americans, on the Czeremoss River, which separates Galicia and Bukovina. The place is 19 miles east of south of Kolomena and 36 miles west of Czernowit. It has an extensive output of Russian and Moroccan leather. Large salt works are also located in the neighborhood.

The Difference.
When a woman winds a towel around her head, and calls for a bucket of water, it means the beginning of a big day, but when a man winds a towel around his head, and calls for water, it means the end of a big night.

put one right over the fence and score for yours truly via Prince Albert tobacco that made three men smoke a pipe today where one smoked before, and put new notions into men who know what a real makin's cigarette can taste like!

Why, to fire up a jimmy pipe packed with P. A. or to pull on a P. A. makin's cigarette is just about, just about! Never was such tobacco, because no other tobacco can be made like Sooner or later you'll go to this wonder-smoke as little apples grow on trees. Just can't help it, like! P. A. is so good and true, such chummy tobacco, that men just go happy about it. You get it into your system without losing any more time that you'll strike 18 ct. gold just as soon as you fire up a jimmy pipe or roll up a makin's cigarette with P. A.

Also, get these few remarks: Prince Albert is produced by a patented process that cuts out the bite and the parch. Prove that at the cost of a dime before you do the next thing!

LIKE THIRTY CENTS.

That is the way the Wall Street Journal handles the outcome of the recent election, and says:

"Ex-governor William Sulzer is quoted as saying that he elected Whitman, beat Glynn, and made Roosevelt look like thirty cents." There is internal evidence of truth in the report, in that, like most of Mr. Sulzer's statements, this takes something for granted which cannot be proved. But his comment upon Colonel Roosevelt is substantially accurate.

"In the old and bad days of speculation in railroad stocks, there was a railroad in the middle west, which need not be more particularly specified, whose one asset was what lawyers would call its nuisance value. It did not earn or deserve dividends, and has never done so since. But in the old ante-regulation days it was in a position to upset the rate agreements of larger and better conducted roads.

"This is what remains to Mr. Roosevelt and the curious hybrids, still left in congress and the senate, who call themselves progressives. How they progress, and whether they are progressing, is something the voters of the country have failed to comprehend. There seems to be a party of nine still left in the house of representatives. This is just sufficient to swing the balance, with the almost nominal democratic majority, to the republican side.

"There is business re-assurance in this condition. It means that claptrap legislation for the harrassing of business must be suspended for the remainder of the present year at least. No doubt such a leader and such a party do, as Mr. Sulzer says, 'look like thirty cents.' In their usefulness for the restoration of confidence and the relegation of its proper sphere, they represent a sum considerably larger."

THE BELGIAN PROBLEM.

The problem of what shall be done to aid the suffering Belgians is one that is of considerable importance to Europe just at present. Not only to Europe, but to the whole civilized world as well. It is roughly estimated that millions of women and children and the aged and infirm, are without food or shelter. Some in actual pitiable conditions as the winter approaches. As long as the fighting continues on Belgium territory, these unfortunate people can not return to their ruined structures and their homes, with any hope of rehabilitation themselves. They need food. The money subscribed in this country will be used to purchase American food supplies to be sent across the Atlantic in American ships to aid in the work of rescue. There is a scarcity of food in Europe at this time. England has always depended upon foreign nations to furnish the bulk of its supply and with the German war vessels active on the high seas, this supply has been partially cut off. Upon England and Holland falls the bulk of the work of feeding these unfortunate people and both countries are being taxed to the limit. Add your contribution to the lists that are placed about the city, at the four banks and the Baker drug store and Gazette office, that Janesville and Rock county may be represented in this work of saving the lives of thousands of human beings who are innocent sufferers.

THE EMDEN.

If the authenticity of the dispatches received announcing the sinking and burning of the German cruiser Emden can be believed, the end is written for one of the sea tales that stir men's blood even in this modern day. The Emden's commander, Captain Mueller, will have a place in the annals of naval warfare among the most daring and resourceful of modern times. In some respects he had a harder problem than that of John Paul Jones. For Jones was exempt from the necessity of finding coal to keep his ship in motion. It will be hoped that if the Emden at last has met disaster Captain Mueller himself survives, and also the brave and efficient fellows who formed his crew. With the Emden out of the way British merchant vessels will have a better chance of safety in the part of the world in which heretofore they have been coming to grief. There may be other German vessels on the high seas as formidable as the Emden, but there are very few commanders in any navy like Captain Mueller.

The recount of votes in the six counties where discrepancies are alleged, may give McGovern the election, the United States senate after all. But this will be but a preliminary step toward the desired end for Husting will take the matter up to the senate, which with its democratic members and the animosity of La Follette would doubtless seat the democratic aspirant.

One of the Wilson republican-democrats, states that "the people of the country are satisfied with Wilson but not with congress." That gentleman does not stop to realize that Wilson represents democracy and that it is the Wilson theoretical doctrines that congress enacts into laws.

England has awakened to the actual needs of the present war and is now making preparation for a long drawn-out struggle. The recruiting still continues and Lord Kitchener is not yet satisfied to call a halt. He is a far seeing man and prepares for the worst.

If all the cannon and field artillery captured by the allies, the Russians and the Germans were parked in one square there would not be any room for any fighting in some districts in Europe. That is the cannon and munitions captured in various dispatches.

The governors are holding an interesting session at Madison this week and McGovern is playing the host. This organization of the "third house" in state governments is an experiment the results of which will be watched with interest.

The Mexican trouble is not yet over by a good deal and it would be safer by far to retain the United States soldiers at Vera Cruz now they are there, than to bring them home and then have to send them back again.

The closing of the Chicago stockyards has worked a hardship on many but thus far the price of beef has not advanced although some dealers may find it an excuse to tack on a few extra pennies before long.

The "safety first" idea as expressed at a Milwaukee meeting of business men recently would include a state law whereby every driver of an automobile would have to qualify and have a state license.

Suffering snails, the democrats still insist that they can find consolation in practically losing control of the lower house of congress. Well, it is lucky some people can be optimistic.

This is a good time to prepare for winter. These pleasant days will not last forever and when the change does come it is best to be prepared.

On The Spur of The Moment

The Optimist.
He allus aimed to please;
The kids all sat upon his knees
And every doggone one of these Wild swears Uncle Hank.
He settled all their little ills
And when they looked pale 'round the gills
He'd recommend the yarks and pills
That cured 'em in a yank.

He took care of the grown-ups, too;
In spite of all that they could do.
There wasn't a soul that could stay blue.

When he was in the room,
When folks would hear the well-known click
Upon the wall his old stick
Grim trouble would vamoose right quick;

It wasn't no place for gloom.
He never won no great renown,
And wasn't knowed outside of town;
Historians won't set him down
For future folks to read.
But for here is of one accord,
That he's no stranger to the Lord,
And sure and certain his reward
Will be complete indeed.

Uncle Abner.
Uncle Pete Timmins says if worst comes to worst he will be willing to contribute eight or ten of his wife's relatives to the war which is now raging in Europe.

"Advice to Mothers."
It is pretty hard to pass a counterfeited quarter on a Pullman car porter. It is easier to get rid of it in a bank.

It is all right for a wife to use her husband's bald head for a mirror, but there is no class to her using his safety razor to slice bacon with.

Anse Perkins says if his wife has her skirt much tighter next season he will have to carry her around on his back.

Uncle Ez Perkins says he is always dead sure when he has a little touch of rheumatism that we are going to have a storm or else some pleasant weather.

Forecasting the Gossips.
A new arrival in a certain town had put up the following sign on his lawn:
My name is Piffleton Wombat.
This is my first wife.
We get along together pretty well.
My income is $900 per year.
My wife makes her own clothes.
She has never left me.
The piano is nearly paid for.
Some of the neighbors think this man is plain nut, but others claim that he's a benefactor, considering all the trouble he has saved the local gossips.

War at Home.
Let others fire at their jolly guns,
I do not like their jolly guns,
It takes all of the spunk I've got
To go and fire the cook.

Let others shovel up the earth
For trenches, 'pon my soul,
I have to hustle all I'm worth
To shovel in the coal.

Let others use their strategy
Retreating through the hills;
It takes all of my tact to dodge
The gentleman with bills.

Let others march across the world,
As Bonaparte once did;
I have to stay at home and march
All night long with the kid.

The Housekeeper is Right

Sometimes a housekeeper requires a quick leavening agent, and finds she has no baking powder.

What does she do?

She raises her biscuit by a mixture of cream of tartar and soda, or soda and sour milk. She may not get the proportions quite right, but she knows her food is safe. But does she ever use a mixture of alum and soda? Was there ever a housekeeper who bought alum and soda to make a home made baking powder? Intuitively she feels it would be unsafe.

Then why use baking powder made from alum or the same mixture that the housekeeper would not dare to mix, and use in her food?

Alum is alum, whether bought in the drug store or in baking powder.

Dr. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

Is made from pure cream of tartar and contains no alum, lime or phosphate. There is absolute safety in its use.

OUR National Opportunity LESSONS for AMERICA from the WAR

TWO GOOD THINGS: VISION AND COURAGE.

(By George H. Benedict.)

The man who wins today has two rare qualities: vision to see the opportunities open to all, and ginger to tackle them with determination.

A man with vision can see further ahead than tomorrow, and deeper than through temporary surface conditions. Judge Gary of the United States Steel corporation has vision. This is what he sees for us, quoting from a recent address:

"It would seem safe to predict that in many important respects business conditions in the United States for next three months at least will be better than they have been for the last three months. As to the long future I do not hesitate to say, with emphasis, that the opportunities for progress in this country are greater than ever before.

"Times and conditions are auspicious. The United States, with its good cause, wealth and resources, should be the financial, industrial and commercial center of the world; and to a corresponding degree there will be opportunity for worthy achievement in every direction.

Next best to being able to read the meaning of the future is the quality or readiness to act when someone else has pointed the way.

You know, of course, that Judge Gary is right. You know that to realize fully on the opportunities of the next year or two, you must put up the best fight you have in you.

The inertia of the timid forms an obstacle for every hustler. But greater the obstacles, the more interesting the fight, and the greater the satisfaction of victory.

Ginger, energy, optimism, all are contagious. If your efforts are charged with these things you will move your own goods, and send away your customers as missionaries for the

Why Pay $10 For Your Dental Gold Crowns

When I will put the very best crowns in your mouth for about one-half of that price?

I just had a REPEAT order from a lady, for whom I placed, one of my crowns along side of a $10 job years ago. She says my work has proven just as good as the other and she could not see ANY REASON for paying double my prices. So she comes back for more.

Good Excuses.

Two men were drinking together when the conversation turned on how to feed and train canaries, which happened to be their profession. They were telling each other the merits of various birds, which were to go in a cage, and both were sure of winning the prize. At last one of them said, in a sorrowful tone: "Ah, Tom, if I had only got the one I had last week I should not have much trouble in winning, but I had taught him to sing, 'Home, Sweet Home,' so much to perfection that the tears rolled down his breast till he got exhausted, fell off his perch and was drowned in his own tears." "Oh," said Tom, "that's nothing. One night my bird was singing 'The Village Blacksmith' so true that the sparks flew out of his eyes, set fire to the cage, and before we had time to put the flames out the poor little wretch got roasted to death."

COUNTY BOARD EATS AT TRAINING SCHOOL

SUPERVISORS ARE GUESTS OF TEACHERS' INSTITUTION AT SUMPTUOUS NOON RE-PAST TODAY.

STATE SUPT. CARY HERE

Spoke During Program Following Dinner.—Routine Business Passed Upon During Morning.

County board members were the guests of Prof. J. L. Lowth, Rock county training school faculty and students today at an excellent dinner prepared by the domestic science department of the teachers' institution. Following the repast, in which Miss Ella J. Jacobson and her embryo teachers did themselves proud, a program of musical and educational numbers was rendered.

C. P. Cary, state superintendent of public instruction, was the guest of honor, and gave an interesting but short discourse on the needs of teachers to interest pupils and develop them to the standard that befits the American man and woman of today.

Prof. H. C. Buell of the Janesville schools spoke on the county training school, and the county school of the future. Mr. Buell has taken an active interest in Rock county's institution and spoke freely on the advantages of the school in helping the youth along lines most essential to their future welfare.

Simon Smith, "the father of Rock county's training school," and R. K. Overton spoke shortly. Earle A. Cleveland, editor of the Daily News, sang a Carrie Jacobs Bond solo in pleasing manner and graciously responded to an encore. Miss Alice Cullen rendered an instrumental selection which received the hearty response of those present.

Morning Session.

The session of the board this morning was given over largely to the reading of communication. By the action of the board a letter from the highway commission giving the apportionment of state aid funds to various townships of the county for construction work was read. Appropriations in the state treasury this year are sufficient to allow the state to contribute its full share to each district so that the 1915 fund will be made up of full state aid from the state, the total for Rock county being something over $35,000. The county will appropriate a like amount so that the fund available for new highway work next year will be $70,000.

Several letters from the state highway commission were read, among them being the commission's decision on the readjustment of the true values of property in the towns of Beloit and Newark, which was taken into consideration by the committee on equalization in compiling its report for the board at this point. A letter was also received by the clerk outlining the state accounting system which the tax commission will install for any county at a cost of not more than $250 for the second year.

The system provides for an audit each month by experts from Madison. This same matter has been up before the board on previous occasions but has never been favorably received.

A communication signed by A. P. Burnham, vice-president of the Rock County National bank, in behalf of the banks of Janesville, Evansville, Edgerton, Oshkosh, Milton, and Milton Junction, requesting that the board disregard all bids for county deposits was read to the board. The banks in the places mentioned are at present the depositories of the county funds under a pro-rata system which was established a year ago.

On the motion of Supervisor S. Smith all bids for the surveying of county and state roads were submitted to the county highway commissioner and shall be paid out of the highway repair fund.

Toward the close of yesterday's session Sheriff C. S. Whipple was elected superintendent of the county asylum and poor farm succeeding D. M. Barriass. Mr. Whipple will assume his new duties on the 1st of January, 1915. The board extended a vote of thanks to Superintendent Barriass during the period they have been in charge of the county institutions. The report of the trustees of the asylum and poor farm was read by A. M. Church, and Superintendent Robert More of Bradford was by himself.

Trustees of the asylum for a term of three years and an appropriation of $18,000 was made for the asylum and poor farm for the year 1915 on resolution of Supervisor Greadow.

L. M. Nelson was re-elected janitor at the court house by a unanimous vote of the board.

YOUNG MAN WHO DIED FROM POISONING WAS NOT BELOIT YOUTH

Janesville relatives of Lyle Roberts, who was thought to have died from the effects of carbolic acid, which was served in ginger ale through mistake at a Kibbourn drug store, Sunday, received notice this morning that the victim was not the former Beloit man. A Janesville friend of the Roberts family went to Kibbourn last evening to identify the body and telegraphed back the above information.

When news dispatches gave the description of the young man, Beloit people formed an opinion that the victim was Lyle Roberts, who had left his home some five or six years ago.

POLICE INVESTIGATE HIGHWAY ROBBERY TALE

A Jefferson man, whose name was not recorded on the police docket, made a complaint to Chief Champion yesterday afternoon that he had been robbed of twenty-five dollars, his beloved pipe and tobacco, two men who rifled his pockets Monday night, while he was sleeping in the sand pit in the vicinity of Shreve Hill.

The Jefferson man told the police that he went to the pit to sleep and was awakened from his slumbers among the sand dunes by a powerful vagabond, who held him while a second man went through his pockets and extracted the money. The stranger declared a woman residing near the place had seen the robbery, but the police found this to be untrue. The woman claimed she had seen two men walking past the pit but did not see the robbery. Three young men of the neighborhood, whose records are unsavory, were brought to the station, but the Jefferson man could not identify them as being the guilty parties.

The story told by the man was so unconnected and vague that all three of the suspects were released. After learning that the stranger had been loitering in the city for some time, without funds, the police gave the matter no further attention, believing the man's tale to be false.

WRITES THESIS ON LAND QUESTION IN GEORGIA

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—"The Agrarian Revolution in Georgia," the title of a study of the land question by Robert Preston Brooks, assistant professor of history in the University of Georgia, published by the University of Wisconsin. The study embraces the period 1865-1912 and takes up the general conditions in Georgia for the five years following the civil war, the failure of the plantation system of farming, the decadence of plantations and the beginnings of small ownerships and of tenancy, the contrasting types of tenancy in the new regime—cropping and renting in his study Mr. Brooks criticizes the census method of classifying southern farms. He traces the local history of land tenure in the various sections of Georgia, and shows that the share tenant in that state is really a day laborer.

TWO YEAR OLD BABY DROWNS IN A TANK

SMALL SON OF MARCUS KELLOGG MEETS DEATH WHILE AT PLAY THIS MORNING.

FATHER FINDS BODY

Use Pulmotor to No Avail in Attempt at Resuscitation.—Parents Are Grief Stricken.

While playing with his elder brother this morning Kenneth Marcus Kellogg, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg, of the Kellogg Nursery, south of this city, slipped into a water tank, and was drowned.

Mr. Kellogg was in Janesville at the time of the accident. Workmen about the nursery grounds heard no screams and supposed that the two boys were playing quietly after their usual custom. Mr. Kellogg inquired upon his return home as to the whereabouts of his younger son. He soon discovered the boy prostrate in the large cement water tank, which was filled with two feet of water.

A call was at once sent for the gas company's pulmotor and Dr. Frank Farnsworth and W. A. Munn were hastily summoned. After a half hour's work with the pulmotor the physicians announced that there was no hope of resuscitating the child, as it was evident the boy had drowned ten or fifteen minutes before the father arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg are grief stricken over the child's death. He was a lively little fellow, bright and active, eight-headed and cheerful. Besides the parents there remain one brother, Bennett, aged five years, who was playing with Marcus at the time of the accident, and one sister, Lucy. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at two o'clock at the home on the Beloit road, Rev. T. D. Williams of the Cargill M. E. church officiating. Interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. A. A. Hennessy.

The death of Mrs. A. A. Hennessy occurred this morning at eight o'clock after a long illness of several days. She was the wife of A. A. Hennessy, telegraph operator at the St. Paul depot.

A short funeral service will be held at the home, 226 Palm street, Friday afternoon, after which the remains will be taken to Whitewater, where funeral and interment will take place on Saturday.

Mrs. Hennessy's death was a shock to her husband and many friends and the sympathy of the community is extended to those left to mourn her loss.

Mrs. John H. McBride.

Funeral services for Mrs. John H. McBride were held this morning at the St. Mary church.

Those who celebrated solemn high mass were: Rev. William Gabel, celebrant; Rev. Charles McBride of the Cathedral of Milwaukee as deacon; and Patrick Carroll of Litchfield, Illinois, as sub-deacon. The pallbearers were: John, Edward, James, Michael and Lawrence Campion and William McBride, all brothers of the deceased. Burial was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

MUSICAL PROGRAM AT DAUGHTERS' MEETING

Mrs. Starr Atwood Entertained Members at Washington Street Home Yesterday Afternoon.

Mrs. Starr Atwood of Washington street was the hostess to the members of the D. A. R. on Monday afternoon at her home. A musical program was given, under the direction of Miss Charlotte Fritchard. Mrs. Alice Sherer sang two solos, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. George Stewart. Miss Wilna Sovorhild gave two violin selections. Miss Bartholomew of Delafield, Wisconsin, gave a most delightful reading. After the program Mrs. George Sutherland gave a report of the state convention, recently held in Madison, where she went as a delegate. The ladies decided that their work for the winter would be sewing for the visiting nurse. They will also make and furnish bags for popcorn and candy for the municipal Christmas tree that is being planned by the city. Mrs. Atwood served refreshments at five o'clock. The next meeting of the D. A. R. will be held the second Tuesday in December with Mrs. J. L. Bostwick, on Court street. The meeting will be devoted to civic warfare work and the making and filling of the stockings for the municipal tree. There was a large attendance at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

MINERS GET TOGETHER IN IMPORTANT SESSION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Denver, Nov. 11.—A meeting of vital interest to the metal and coal miners of the country, will be held here about the middle of November when the joint committee of the United Miners' Workers and Western Federation of Miners begin final consideration of plans for absorption of the Western Federation by the United Miners. The joint committee met in Butte last month but adjourned to meet here the middle of November.

While the Butte conference indicated that the absorption would probably be recommended by the United Miners, the United Miners committee wanted to come here to investigate personally the membership claims of the Federation and inquire into the details of its methods of administration.

A member of the United Miners Committee recently expressed the opinion that in the event of absorption it would be a year before the Western Federation would lose its identity and become merely a department of the United States Miners.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

STOPPING WHEN YOU'RE THROUGH.
A CERTAIN woman whom I know slightly has a great ambition to be exceptionally well dressed. She has some good taste, much good looks and plenty of money, and she would attain her end if it were not for one shortcoming. She lacks restraint.

RUTH CAMERON

She will plan a costume which bids fair to be absolutely charming, and then, at the last moment, she will add a dash of daintiness in itself but utterly superfluous, and destructive to the harmony and balance of the whole.

She has some beautiful jewelry which she might wear to excellent advantage if she would only use restraint in her selection, but she always wears too much at one time.

Her house, too, shows the same lack of restraint. It is full of beautiful things, but too full. If one could take twenty articles of various sorts out of her living room the result would be a charming room. As it is, the beauty of the individual articles is lost in the unbalanced redundancy of the whole.

I think the lack of restraint is one of America's national characteristics. Power we have, vitality, vivaciousness, strength, intensity, force and imagination. But in our art and in our living we lack restraint. And lack of restraint is a cancer at the heart of the greatest strength or the most lively ability.

In every form of self-expression, whether it be business activity, art, or just plain living, we need restraint as well as force and vitality.

A writer will never be great unless he knows what to leave out. The charm of a word or two of suggestion is far greater than that of a lengthy description. It is the adjective that was left out, the finely written paragraph relentlessly dispensed with, the superfluous sentence that was firmly cut out, that makes the finished product a work of art.

And as for painting, well someone has wisely said, "It takes two men to paint a picture, one to paint it and one to knock him on the head when he has finished." And perhaps you have heard the story of the artist who worked for years upon one figure, steadfastly refusing to let anyone see it until he had it perfected. At last, however, he yielded to a friend's pleading and promised to let him see the picture, "although," he said, "it is not finished. One foot is not quite as I want it." The brother artist entered the studio, palpitating with anticipation and saw, to his great astonishment, a large canvas upon which one foot alone was visible. The artist had worked at the thing until he had painted it into a mere blur. The foot which he had not quite finished was a miraculously perfect piece of work.

So lack of restraint will defeat the greatest power and render negative the most vital personality.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged to a young man who lives out of town. His sister is my friend. I learn through her that my lover is keeping constant company with another girl and that he is very intimate with her. What should I do?

E. L. There is only one thing to do. Write to the young man, tell him what you have heard and very quietly release him from his engagement. If he refuses to accept the release then insist on his giving up the society of this girl. There is no harm in his going occasional business with other girls, but there should be no secret about the matter and of course constant attention to someone else is not to be thought of.

An engagement furnishes an opportunity for young people to become better acquainted. It is a good thing to see if they have the qualities that would make them happy together. The fact that he could pay constant attention to some other girl and keep it a secret from you, that he does not care enough for you to make you his wife and that he is deceitful and not to be trusted or else very thoughtless. The course I suggested will make him choose between you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a widow with two children. There is a young man who has been very kind to me and to my children. He wishes to marry me and I think we would be very happy together, but he is two years younger than I am and my brother makes all sorts of fun of me for going with him and hardly treats him decent. I live at my brother's house. I do not know what to do, so I come to you for advice. What do you think of such a difference in ages? MRS. T. A. My dear friend, happiness in marriage does not depend on the ages of the contracting parties, but on real congeniality of nature. If your brother has no other objection to the match, certainly should not feel governed by his opinions. If you two have like tastes and ideals, if you could make each other happy and if you are both ready to give and receive love, surely it would be better to have a home of your own than to live with your brother and bring him up alone. Real love, not age, counts.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: How is a young man to know whether a girl really cares for him if he does not spoon with her? Some women are cold and unresponsive. I should hate to marry such a one.

Of course I am not standing up for indiscriminate spooning—this "kiss-me-if-you-love-me" business is a thing which a man is entitled to when a girl and thinks of making her his wife. Is not a little judicious spooning permissible?

A BACHELOR. I think any married man will tell you, my friend, that it takes all the calm judgment a man can bring to bear on the subject to decide this important question right; and a man may very easily mistake passion for love. If a girl is congenial mentally and her views of life are in accord with yours, if she loves you, she will never be cold and unresponsive.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I read the letter about spooning, published a few days ago, with great interest. It is a subject about which I feel very strongly. I have girls of my own and I tell them just what you tell the girls in your column, that no decent young man wants to marry a girl whom every boy she ever went with has hugged and kissed. All the bloom of purity and sweetness would be gone. I hope you can make them see that and make them willing to stand up for self-respecting womanhood. Success to you.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

CANNING AND PRESERVING.
Waxed Tomatoes—Take large, not too ripe tomatoes, carefully wash as possible, wipe clean with a dry cloth, have paraffin hot and paint tomatoes with camelhair brush. Be sure the tomatoes are all covered, but do not put on a very thick covering.

Sweet Apple Pickles—Pare and core enough sweet apples to make two gallons of pickle. Wash, dry, and slice in large pieces. Prepare a good pickle of three parts strong cider vinegar, two parts maple syrup or brown sugar enough to make sweet, and spice to taste, with whole cloves and stick cinnamon. Steam until very tender (a few at a time) then place them in the pickle and let stand on back of stove where they will keep warm, but not scalding hot. Let remain there about twenty-four hours, then put in cans and seal.

TO PRESERVE A HUSBAND.

Choose carefully, and not too young, from such a variety as a good moral or better, a Christian atmosphere produces. When once you have chosen, let that part remain forever settled, and give plenty of time to thought of preparing your choice for domestic use.

Do not insist in keeping him in a pickle, neither constantly in hot water. Even poor varieties are sometimes made sweet and tender by garnishing with patience, sweetened with smiles and flavored with kisses.

Wrap well in a mantle of charity. Keep warm with a constant flow of domestic devotion and serve with toothsome adities.

When thus prepared they are warranted to keep for years.

THE TABLE.

Cream of Potato Soup—Take four or five young potatoes, one onion, boil in salt water until done. Pour part of water off, add one pint milk and a dash of pepper. Now take or five thin slices of bacon or pork, cut in small pieces, fry brown and add to soup. Browning the meat gives it a rich flavor. In making bean soup do not boil the pork, but brown in a pan with a little flour and add to the soup. Try this once and you will always do it.

Fruit Salad—One dozen bananas, one dozen oranges, one-half dozen good apples, one pound green grapes, one bunch celery, one pound English walnuts, a few chopped pickles, four over dressing made as follows: Yolks of four eggs, well beaten, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, one cup vinegar, one teaspoon mustard, salt and pepper, three-fourths cup sweet milk. Cook until thick in double boiler.

Shoe Fly Pie—One cup sugar (brown is best), one cup flour, butter to make this in crumbs; two-thirds cup water, one-half teaspoon cup powder in the water; flavoring to taste. Pour this into crust, sprinkle crumbs on top and bake in moderate oven.

Mock Cherry Pie—Two cup cranberries cut in halves and washed in cold water to remove seeds; one cup raisins, cut in two; one and one-half cups sugar, one teaspoon cornstarch wet with a little cold water and one cup boiling water poured in two teaspoons vanilla. Mix all together. Bake with two crusts. Sufficient for three pies.

Delicious Oatmeal Bread—Pour one cup boiling water over two cups oatmeal in a large bowl. Let stand till blood heat, add two cups bread sponge, mix well; and one-half cup corn syrup or one-half cup brown sugar, one cup chopped butter, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon lard, one-half cup nutmeats, enough flour to mix stiff. Knead until smooth and elastic. Let rise till it doubles in bulk. Mold into two loaves, let rise again, bake slowly about an hour.

Chocolate Gingerbread—One cup brown sugar, half cup molasses, one egg, two tablespoons melted butter or other shortening, half teaspoon cream of tartar, one teaspoon ginger, half teaspoon cinnamon, a few drops lemon essence, one even teaspoon soda dissolved in a teaspoon of sour milk. Melt one ounce of chocolate in a teaspoonful of butter, add with two cups flour. Bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes.

Every Day Talks To Every Day People
BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.
Are you unsatisfied with your figure, or is it in some ways a discredit to your manner of living? For the defects of the average figure there is not always a valid excuse as the frame was given to men and women can be built upon with regard to proportion—if we put the matter in some of our appetites and lead them, very firmly, to some objective place. Errors of diet and exercise are usually at the bottom of faults of the figure and while it may be said to say and hard to accomplish, this ridding ourselves of some errors along these lines, the results are very beneficial.

If a woman be the ideal height, five feet five inches, she should weigh one hundred and thirty-eight pounds. If she weighs more than this, and some of the fat sex do, the cutting out of fat-producing foods, such as potatoes, rice, cream, fat meat, sugar, sweets of all kinds, especially candies, is bound to help her back to her former slenderness. It is not to be taken that one must erase these articles of food from their bill of fare entirely—that would be like leaving home. Simply reduce the amount; be strong enough in your will-power, to say "no" to the suggestion that you take the second helping.

If your weight is below the above, put on your diet list the very things that

Men and Women Like New Drink

The wide-spread and growing demand for Maté emphasizes the fact that here is one drink that appeals to both men and women. Its beneficial effect on stomach and nerves is what commends it to women, while its "languid" flavor and nutritious and sustaining qualities cause men to drink it with supreme satisfaction. Maté helps the brain without hurting the heart. It is genuinely invigorating, and yet has none of the ill effects found in stimulants. The Argentine republic consumes more than 100,000,000 pounds of Maté every year, and in South America it is the favorite drink of society women, working women, office men, professional men, laborers and mechanics.

Maté is served at every meal of the day. It is delicious hot or iced. It is easy to prepare and the day's supply can be made at breakfast boiling. Woodley's Maté is sold by grocers everywhere. A 50-cent package will make 100 to 200 cups with one boiling; many claim that Maté is better at the second boiling than at the first.

Sprains, Bruises Stiff Muscles

Sloan's Liniment will save hours of suffering. For bruise or sprain it gives instant relief. It arrests inflammation and thus prevents more serious troubles developing. No need to rub it in—it acts at once, instantly relieving the pain, however severe it may be.

Here's Proof
Charles Johnson, P. O. Box 105, Lancaster, Pa., writes: "I sprained my ankle and dislocated my left hip by falling out of a third story window six months ago. I went on crutches for four months, then I started to use some of your Liniment, according to your directions, and I must say that it is helping me wonderfully. I threw my crutches away. Only used two bottles of your Liniment and now I am walking quite well with one cane. I never will be without Sloan's Liniment."

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles. If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lay, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

When Janesville Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Janesville citizen says:

Mrs. Eliza Johnson, 118 N. Terrace St. Janesville, says: "I was suffering from kidney trouble and rheumatic pains for ten or twelve years. My kidneys seemed to get clogged and didn't filter the poison from my system. I got weak and almost helpless at times. My joints ached and were very sore. It seemed that I could get nothing that would relieve me. Finally, I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a supply at the People's Drug Co. I was soon feeling better and my kidneys gradually got strong. All I said about Doan's Kidney Pills when I recommended them two years ago, holds good. I have just as much confidence in them now as I did then."

CHAPTER XLIV.

As in a Glass, Darkly.

Thoughtfully Mr. Barcus returned his attention to the lovers.

If the evidence of his senses did not mislead him, he was witnessing their first difference of opinion. It was not an argument acute enough to deserve the name of quarrel; but undoubtedly the two were at odds upon some question—Rose insistent, Alan reluctant.

The last gave way in the end, shrugged, returned to the car.

"I'm going back up the trail," he announced, and hesitated oddly.

"Feeling the need of some little exercise, no doubt," Barcus suggested.

"Rose thinks it's dangerous to stop here," Alan began to explain, ignoring the interruption.

"Miss Rose is right—oh, Miss Judith?" Barcus interpolated.

Judith nodded darkly.

"So I'm going to see if I can't buy burros from the prospector back there. Rose says he has some—doesn't know how many."

"Three will be enough," Judith interposed.

"I mean, don't get one for me. I'm stopping here."

"But—" Alan started to protest.

She gave him pause with a weary gesture.

"Please! It's no good arguing, Mr. Law. I've made up my mind; I can be most helpful here, by my father's side," she asserted, and nodded at Trine with a significant smile that maddened him. "He needs me—and no harm can come to me; I'm pretty well able to take care of myself!"

At this the innocent bystander breathed an unheard but fervent little prayer of thanksgiving, whose spirit he doubted not was shared by Alan.

For it stuck in the memory of Barcus that their friend, the prospector (whose shack had sheltered Rose and Barcus after their transit of the desert and prior to the man-made avalanche, which had afforded this temporary immunity from pursuit) had mentioned in the hearing of Rose the fact that his string of burros was limited to three.

This, then, must have been the nub of the lovers' quarrel: Rose's insistence that Judith be left behind, Alan's reluctance to consent to this test he convicted himself of the charge of rank ingratitude, remembering the great service his erstwhile antagonist had done him.

If only Judith might not find cause to change her mind!

He set himself sedulously to divert Judith with the magic of his conversational powers—an offering indifferently received. He was still blithely gossiping when Judith flung away to her sister's side.

The ensuing quarrel seemed but the more portentous in view of the restraint imposed upon themselves by both parties thereto.

He believed, however, that a crisis impended when the tinkle of mule bells sounded down the canyon road; and at this he threw discretion to the winds and ran toward the two with hands upheld in mock horror and a manner of humorous protest.

"Ladies, ladies!" he pleaded. "I beg of you both, let dogs delight to bark and bite—"

He got no farther: Judith's ears were as quick as his own; she, too, had caught the sound of bells behind the base of the hill. And of a sudden, without another word, she turned and flung away into the heavy thickets of undergrowth that masked all the canyon, to either side of the wagon-trail. In a twinkling she had lost herself to view in their labyrinthine shadows.

The remainder of that business was transacted rapidly enough. There were no preparations to be made; once Alan had ridden up with his three burros, nothing remained but to mount and make off without delay.

Before morning they were all riding like so many hypnotized subjects, fatigue bearing so heavily on all their senses that none spoke or cared to speak.

Broad daylight surprised them in this state, still stubbornly traveling; and shortly afterward showed them one place so perilous that it shocked them temporarily awake.

This was simply a spot where the trail came abruptly to an end on one side of a cleft in the hills quite thirty feet wide and several hundred in depth, and was continued on the farther side, the chasm being spanned by a bridge of the simplest character—no more than a footway of boards bound together with ropes none too substantial in seeming, with another rope, breast-high, to serve as a hand-rail.

Alan tested the bridge cautiously. It bore him. He returned, helped Rose to cross, and with her once safely landed on the other side, took his life in his hands and, aided by a Barcus unaffectedly afflicted with qualms, somehow or other (neither of them knew precisely how) persuaded the burros to cross.

After that, though the way grew more broad and easy and even showed symptoms of a decline, they had not enough strength left to sustain through another hour.

And what they thought good for, fortune, opportunity at this pass, brought them to a clearing dotted with the buildings of an abandoned copper mine. Not a soul was in evidence there, but the rude structures offered shelter for beast as well as man.

Barely had they made Rose as comfortable as might be upon the rough plank flooring of one of the sheds and tethered the burros out of sight, when Alan collapsed as if drugged, while Barcus, who had elected himself to keep the first watch and purposed doing it in a sitting position, with his back against the door-jamb, felt sleep overcoming him like a dense, dark cloud.

CHAPTER XLV.

The Bowels of the Earth.

Awaking befell Mr. Barcus in a fashion sufficiently sharp and startling to render him indifferent to the beneficial effects of some eight hours of dreamless slumber.

He discovered himself lying flat on his face, with somebody's inconsiderate, heavy hand purposely grinding the said face into the aged and splintery planks of the shed flooring. At the same time other hands were busy binding his own together by the wrists and lashing the same to the small of his back by means of a cord passed around his middle, while his natural if somewhat spasmodic efforts to kick were sadly hampered by the fact that his ankles had already been secured by means of half a dozen half-hitches and a square knot.

His hands attracted to his head was released. Promptly he lifted it and essayed to yell; an effort rendered abortive by the gag that was thrust between his teeth the instant his jaws opened.

Then he heard a laugh, a cold, mirthless chuckle.

Now the blind of Thomas Barcus ran cold (or he thought it did; which amounts to much the same thing). For if his senses had played fair, the laugh he had heard was the laugh of Mr. Marrophat, head-devil in the service of Seneca Trine.

He twisted his head to one side and glancing along the floor, saw nothing but the wall. Twisted the other way, at the cost of a splinter in his nose, the effort was repaid by the discovery of Rose Trine in a plight like his own—wrists and ankles bound, gagged into the bargain—the width of the shed between them.

But of Alan Law, no sign.

The heart of Mr. Barcus checked momentarily; he shut his eyes and shivered in an uncontrollable seizure of dread.

Then, tormented beyond endurance by the fears he suffered for the safety of his friend, he began to wriggle and squirm like a crippled snake, painfully inching his way across the floor toward Rose—with what design, heaven alone knows! Dimly his mental vision comprehended the bare possibility of his being able, with his fast-numbing fingers, to work loose the knots at Rose's wrists; but deep in his heart he knew this to be nothing but forlorn hope.

With infinite pains he had contrived to bridge the distance by half, or possibly not quite so much, when a dark body put the sunlight of the open doorway into temporary eclipse. Another followed it. Boots clumped heavily on the flooring. The laugh sounded again, apparently in ironic appreciation of Mr. Barcus' efforts. Two pairs of hands seized him, one beneath the shoulders, the other beneath the knees, and he was lugged laboriously out into the sunlight, carried a considerable distance, and deposited unceremoniously within a few feet of the mouth of the abandoned mine just at the moment when he had satisfied himself that the purpose of his captors was simply to throw him into the black well.

He wasted a look of appeal on the frozen mask of villainy that was Marrophat's (who bore the burden of Barcus' head and shoulders) and got laughed at for all his pains.

Then he was left to himself once more, but only for a few moments; the interval ended when the two appeared again, this time bringing Rose in similar fashion.

Not until she had been put down beside him did he discover that Alan was likewise a captive—trussed to a tree at some distance.

The remaining arrangements of their captors were swiftly and deftly consummated, though their design re-black hole.

With a final squeal and thump the bulkhead settled into place. A confusion of remote sounds thereafter indicated that Jimmy (with, perhaps, Marrophat's assistance) was making the bulkhead fast beyond question—wedging and blocking it with timbers.

These ceased, and the silence was broken by Alan's voice.

"Barcus!"

The latter granted soulfully by way of answer: he could do no more.

"I've worked my gag loose," Alan pursued in a hurried whisper, "but my hands are tied behind my back. Are yours? Grunt once for 'yes.'"

Dutifully Barcus granted a solitary grunt.

"Then roll over on your face and give me a chance to work them free that way, given time."

"Time!" was the mirthless thought of Barcus. "Haven't we got all eternity?"

For all that, he wasted no time whatever in obeying Alan's suggestion—then lay for upward of ten minutes with his face in the mold of the tunnel while Alan chewed and spat and chewed and spat and chewed again at the ropes round the wrists of his friend.

With a final squeal and thump the bulkhead settled into place. A confusion of remote sounds thereafter indicated that Jimmy (with, perhaps, Marrophat's assistance) was making the bulkhead fast beyond question—wedging and blocking it with timbers.

These ceased, and the silence was broken by Alan's voice.

FEARFUL HUMOR COVERED FACE—RESINOL CURED

Pateron, N. J., Dec. 9, 1913. "About a year ago my face began to crack and get scaly in blotches. It soon got worse and my face was all spotted and rough, and it itched me very much at night, and caused me no end of discomfort. After a month or so, pimples and blackheads began to show, first in small numbers and then gradually covering my entire face. It was awful. The pimples were sore and the rash was itchy and my face had a most unsightly appearance. I could get no relief. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment caused me instant relief. By the time another jar of Resinol Ointment and cake of Resinol Soap were gone, I can truthfully say that it was a complete cure. My face had assumed its former color and looks, due to Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. They are, I think, the best for any skin trouble." (Signed) Robert Troyano, 289 E. 21st Street. Sold by all druggists.

JOHNSTOWN

Johnstown, Nov. 9.—The George Austin farm is quarantined following the discovery of his herd of infected cattle with foot and mouth disease. His car load of cattle were recently shipped from Chicago. ROUTINE BUSINESS AT COUNCIL MEETING

Auditing Bills and Other Weekly Work Taken Up by the Commissioners.

Only business of a routine nature including reports, orders for bills and minor transactions were brought before the city commission at their weekly meeting held Tuesday afternoon. The council discussed opening and purchasing of lots on Western avenue for dumping grounds to fill in a portion of the Monterey marsh and the attitude of the commissioners favored the project.

Superintendent of Streets P. J. Goodmar was ordered to open Elizabeth street from Chatham to Palm street work on which will be started as soon as the city employees complete the construction on the Pleasant street cement storm sewer. Two lots, necessary for the opening and extension of the thoroughfare, have been purchased by the city.

Walter Holmes, sealer of weights and measures, submitted his report on the condition of the street signs throughout the city now in need of repair. The report was received and the commission will take action in the near future to repair and renew the signs.

The report of the Board of Public Works, on curb and gutter improvements on the various streets, constructed by the city, was received and B. F. Crossman for the city's share of the improvement which amounted to $291.19. Certificates were issued against the property-owners on whose lots the work was done, and delivered to B. P. Crossman for collection (these being for the property-owners' share in the improvement).

City Clerk Hammarlund was ordered to from the general fund amounts to the treasurer for collection in the case before the county court to appraise the value of the Kreuger estate on Ringold street. The total amount was $74.50.

The report of the municipal court, showing a record of nineteen cases being tried, was received and filed. Court fees during the month of October were $21.60, fines, $182.00; penalties, $16.00; marshal fees, $8.50; a total of $228.10.

The report from the board of education for October, showing a total expenditure of $13,487.00, was received and ordered published. The amount is unusually large because of two pay-rolls, which were due last month. Superintendent of Streets Goodman was ordered to build a standard cross-walk across Milton avenue at Hyatt street.

Mayor Jas. A. Fathers announced the appointment of Charles Harman and John Dalton, as special police officers, without pay, for a short term to expire this month. The commission confirmed the appointments. The bills for labor and material for the past two weeks totaling $3,533.69, was allowed and orders drawn for the amounts.

City Clerk Hammarlund was ordered to pay the registration officials for three days' labor and the election officers for one day's work. The council ordered the city clerk to draw an order in favor of the county treasurer for $1,125, which is one-half of the county's share of the saloon license money. The payments are made semi-annually. On motion the council adjourned until Friday.

TRAVELERS ADDRESS THE TWILIGHT CLUB

JANESVILLE MEN WHO VISITED EUROPE LAST SUMMER TELL THEIR EXPERIENCES.

BELGIANS GET MENTION

Leader Hints That Members of Club Might Well Contribute Thanks—giving Cheer to War Sufferers.

Four Janesville men who traveled abroad during the past summer recounted their experiences at the monthly meeting of the Twilight club last evening at the Y. M. C. A. Three of the speakers, T. O. Howe, W. S. Jeffris and Dr. T. W. Nuzum, saw something of the commotion which enveloped the latter part of July, and themselves suffered some personal anxiety and inconvenience. Their accounts of the conditions among the tourists and of the attitude of the French, English and others in going to Belgium, the interest as well as instructive. George S. Parker confined his remarks to his journey through the valley of the Nile, his visit to Cairo, the pyramids, Luxor and Carnack.

T. F. Wortendyke, leader of the evening, mentioned the fact that people in war-stricken Belgium were in much the same plight that a child might be which found itself trampled upon by men engaged in their civil brawl and was being badly hurt through no fault of its own. Any men of the club would hurry to aid the child. In the case of the people of Belgium, the interest as well as instructive. George S. Parker confined his remarks to his journey through the valley of the Nile, his visit to Cairo, the pyramids, Luxor and Carnack.

Mr. Parker's account of his trip to Egypt, carried his listeners in fancy to the land of the Lotus where, with all its wealth of ruins, the reminders of ancient civilizations of wondrous glory and power. He pictured vividly his impressions of the people, his queer streets, its orient and its pyramids, riding on a camel in true caravan style. Their party camped in the desert, an experience never to be forgotten. The wonders of the pyramids and the awe he felt upon viewing the Sphinx were described in an interesting manner, as well as impressions of the massive ruins and tombs at Luxor and Carnack. One thing that impressed Mr. Parker especially was the crude and antiquated methods of farming employed by the natives. He inquired about it and was told that there were people in Cairo to do the work in the old style fashion, hence there was no need for labor saving machinery.

T. O. Howe described briefly his trip through England, Scotland, Ireland and then into Holland, Germany, Switzerland, where their sight-seeing was cut short on account of the war rumors. He told of a hasty journey to Paris and of days of anxious waiting for developments. Then came the actual declaration of war and the announcement ordering foreigners to leave the country. He described the panic-stricken mob of tourists fighting to get onto the trains and at the coast, struggling to board the boats for England. What discomfort they suffered he laid to the crowd itself and declared that the French were always courteous and considerate. They required three examinations of every man who left the country.

Mr. Howe returned to America, he said, with a better appreciation of the reputation that the United States enjoys as a peace loving nation. In Holland during a conversation with a native he mentioned how much Americans thought of Holland on account of her peace proclivities. The Hollander turned on him and told a few things regarding the United States and peace among them the fact that the standing army of the United States was less than Holland's. He seems to me that it is better for us to live up to this reputation for peace than to forfeit it as would be the case if we followed the advice of a certain leading citizen as given in an address to a body of eastern college students," said Mr. Howe.

W. S. Jeffris, after a few sarcastic remarks at his own expense in which he ridiculed himself for recounting so many times the story of his trip, launched out in a most graphic and interesting story of the journey from Athens to Trieste, Trieste to Ancona, Ancona to Genoa, and finally after days of anxiety, from Genoa to Liverpool in the steerage of a boat provided for British refugees.

Dr. T. W. Nuzum told of his impressions of London and England upon the eve of conflict. He commented especially upon the loyalty of Ireland in the time of great emergency when the Irish laid aside their internal strife which bordered on civil war in order to come to the aid of Great Britain. The same thing, he said, was true to Canada where unusual patriotism was manifest. Dr. Nuzum's personal experience of his journey through England and Ireland and the close attention of his audience.

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR CROSS, SICK CHILD GIVE ONLY "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

CLEANSER TENDER LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS WITHOUT INJURY.

Every mother realizes that this is the children's ideal laxative, and physic, because they love its pleasant taste and it never fails to effect a thorough "inside cleansing" without griping.

When your child is cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! if coated, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels and you have a well, playful ful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember a good liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Billions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on each bottle.

Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other fig syrup with contempt.

You Know

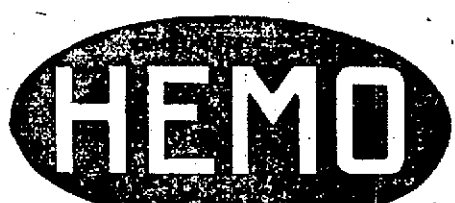

beef juice is especially nourishing. You know the iron of vegetables and meats builds blood. You know malt is an excellent tonic.

You know the benefits of celebrated Waukesha Water.

Hemo is all this and more—more than a medicine because its hemoglobin builds without drugs, more than a malt tonic because it is "double malted" and contains no alcohol—more than prime beef because it is ready-to-use energy requiring no digestion.

DRUGLESS HEALING

The Hyomei Catarrh Remedy is Nature's Own Method.

It certainly would be ridiculous for you to take a pill to cure a burn, but no more so to try to cure catarrh, coughs, croup or head colds, by dosing the stomach.

Medicating the air you breathe with Hyomei—that's the sensible way. This treatment goes directly to the sore and congested membrane lining of the nose and throat and makes a rapid and lasting end of distressing catarrh ills.

Hyomei is nature's true method of treating all diseases affecting the air passages, and the most economical. The Hyomei complete outfit consists of a small hard rubber inhaler and a bottle of Hyomei, and never costs over a dollar. If your trouble is deep-seated and should require a little more of the liquid an extra bottle of Hyomei will cost but a trifle.

Hyomei is sold by Smith Drug Co. with a guarantee to return the money if it does not make a satisfactory cure.

RECEPTION SATURDAY NIGHT FOR FRESHMEN

Seniors Are to be Entertainers to Incoming Class, Following Big Game With Beloit Highs.

The senior-freshman reception, in which the upper classmen are the hosts to the green freshmen, are being held on Saturday night, following the big Beloit-Janesville gridiron battle in the afternoon. This reception is an annual one, and up to this season has been held entirely in the jail.

The senior class have made arrangements for an event quite different from past similar receptions. They have prepared a play, to be presented during the evening, which comprises many in the cast. An address of welcome will be made by President George Knevelo of the senior class. The members of the faculty and football eleven will be invited guests along with the freshman class.

MARKET QUIET LOCALLY FOR WISCONSIN TOBACCO MATURING FINE IN SHEDS

The weather continues fine and late tobacco is ripening far excellence in the sheds. A little more weather like the past month will put it in prime condition. According to several local dealers little buying of any nature has featured the past week in the Janesville market. Filters and wrappers are holding up good but with no noticeable demand on any section. As yet a week ago, the large dealers are holding back and are causing no furies in the market. As in other business the slogan seems to be, "Sit Tight and Don't Rock the Boat."

NEW K. C. OFFICERS TO BE INSTALLED THURSDAY

Newly elected officers of Carroll Council No. 590, Knights of Columbus, will be installed tomorrow evening. A smoker and evening of sociability will follow the installation.

State Deputy W. M. Burke of Kenosha will be here to have charge of the ceremonies when the new officers take their chairs. Those who will hold office for the ensuing year are: E. T. Madden, grand knight; John Joyce, deputy grand knight; Will McCue, financial secretary; James Morris, recording secretary; W. B. Sullivan, chancellor; Michael Mulquin, advocate; John Moran, winter officer; Charles Viney, inside guard; Hugh Flaherty, outside guard and J. J. Dulis, trustee.

BRODHEAD YOUTH HITS BARTENDER IN SALOON; TAKES COUNT IN COURT

John Glenn of Brodhead attempted to use a West Milwaukee street saloon as sleeping quarters last night, when the bartender asked him at closing time a little engagement followed that resulted in Glenn's arrest.

Glenn is said to have gained the decision in the saloon bout, but the youth made a mistake in coming to the municipal court this morning when Judge Maxfield sentenced him to twenty days in default of a fifteen dollar fine. Glenn pleaded guilty but did not remember the count in court or even who he was arrested by. As Chief Champion made the arrest, Glenn must have a poor memory.

Gus Englebrist drew ten dollars or ten days for his drunk, after pleading guilty.

COUNTY SUFFRAGETTES WILL CONVENE THURSDAY

There will be a meeting of the Rock County Woman's Suffrage association at Library hall, Thursday morning at 10:30. The annual dues and monthly pledges may be paid at this meeting.

FOOD SOURING IN STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION, GAS

"PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN" ENDS ALL STOMACH DISTRESS IN FIVE MINUTES.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really a feast. Please for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

The Fight Against the Foot-and-Mouth Disease

Statement From the Secretary of Agriculture in Regard to the Federal Measures.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 11.—The secretary of agriculture has issued the following statement regarding the quarantine for foot-and-mouth disease:

"The present outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease which is one of the most contagious and destructive diseases of cattle, swine and sheep, exceeds in area affected any of the five previous outbreaks in this country. Unless the infection can be immediately localized and quickly eradicated, it threatens untold losses among live stock.

"So contagious is the disease that in past outbreaks where but one animal in a herd was infected, the entire herd in almost all cases later contracted the sickness. While the mortality is not high, the effects of the disease, even on animals that recover are such as to make them practically useless. They lose flesh rapidly; in the case of cows, the milk dries up, or is made dangerous for human consumption; in the case of breeding animals, the animal once infected becomes valueless for breeding, as it may continue to be a constant carrier of contagion.

"It is possible to curb the external symptoms, but during the process of attempting to cure one sick animal the chances are that hundreds of others may be infected. The treatment of killing of a single animal in a herd was tried in an outbreak and did not prove effective, for the reason that the remainder of the herd soon became affected and had to be killed.

"As a result of the five outbreaks in this country, and other disastrous epidemics of the disease in Europe and Asia, the United States government and the United States are agreed that the only method of combating the disease is to stop all movement of all stock and material which have been subjected to any danger of infection, and to kill off without delay all herds in which the disease has gained any foothold. This enables the authorities to eradicate infected herds and to isolate and hold under observation all suspected herds.

"For these reasons, the department of agriculture has already quarantined the states for the foot-and-mouth disease. The federal quarantine prevents all interstate movement of stock and materials likely to carry the infection. At the same time, the state authorities are imposing local quarantines which prevent the passage of animals from farms or localities known to be infected to other localities in the same state in which the disease has not appeared.

"Each infected herd, as rapidly as the disease is discovered, is killed and the dead animals buried in covering of lime. The skins of the animals are slashed so as to permit the rapid action of the lime.

"The owner of the slaughtered animals is reimbursed on basis of the market value of the animals. An appraiser being appointed by the state. The expense of the whole process of condemnation and disinfection is divided equally between the federal and state governments.

"Until the entire premises have been thoroughly disinfected and all danger of spreading the disease removed, the farm is quarantined by the local authorities in the same way in which it would be for a contagious human disease. This local quarantine prevents the visit of individuals or the transfer of any produce or animals from the farm to other farms. In some cases, because human beings can carry the disease to other herds, the state authorities have prevented children on infected farms from attending school. In other cases, as in Illinois and Ohio, the state authorities have closed the stockyards until they can be cleaned and disinfected.

"The first effort of the department is to discover and segregate all animals sick with the disease or that have been exposed. To this end the federal and state inspectors are now tracing up, through bills of lading and railroad records, all shipments of live cattle which have been made during the last sixty days out of any of the infected or suspected districts. The herds of animals so shipped are located and immediately examined by veterinarians. The only way the presence of foot-and-mouth disease has been discovered in various places in the present wide area now under federal quarantine, which includes Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, Maryland, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa. Similarly, the numbers of all cars in which the animals have been transported from these districts have been obtained, and these are being located and thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

"Following the imposition of a general federal quarantine and the killing of actually infected herds, comes a farm-to-farm inspection of the entire quarantined area. Later, when it becomes clear that the disease has been localized, it will be possible for the federal and state authorities to free from quarantine all but the actually infected counties or districts, and allow the infected herds to resume interstate shipments of stock.

"History of Present Outbreak.

"The present outbreak first appeared in southern Michigan. How it was introduced there is not known. Shipments of diseased hogs from this place which passed to Chicago are believed to be responsible for the infection of the herds in the Union stockyards. Once the yards became infected there was danger that every shipment of live stock through Chicago would be infected and the infection would spread to the rest of the country. These shipments, composed largely of feeders and stockers, were sent to farms for fattening and did not remain in Chicago long enough for the disease to show itself in external symptoms. Some of the cattle, carrying the contagion, after shipment develop external lesions and this accounts for the outbreak of the disease in states as far apart as Iowa and Massachusetts. For this reason a large force of federal inspectors is now running down every shipment and examining the animals or herds at their place of delivery.

"At present the chief danger lies in the possibility of there being concerned sources of infection. Every effort is being made by state and federal authorities, not only to trace suspicious shipments, but to convince farmers of the seriousness of the disease and the extreme danger with which it is communicated, and to urge upon them to report at once to state or federal authorities all suspicious cases of sore mouths or lameness.

BEEF CATTLE MEET WITH BIG DEMAND

Best Animals at Kansas City Bring $11—Decline in Hog Values Reported.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Kansas City was again the only heavily supplied live stock market yesterday. Conditions there are abnormal.

Good beef cattle were in good demand everywhere they were offered for sale, and the day's trading was featured by the sale at Kansas City of a load of 1,600-lb. Kansas shorthorn steers at $11, fattened for the American show. Both Kansas City and St. Joseph are benefiting by Chicago's and St. Louis' closure by attracting eastern shipping demand, which is normally supplied in large measure at the two points last named.

Log grade killing steers are on uncertain footing at all markets, and stocker and feeder demand has virtually ceased for the time being, prospective buyers, fearing further spread of the foot and mouth disease.

Shipments of stock or feeding cattle to any market at this juncture are being discouraged.

Declines in hog values at Kansas City and St. Joseph put those markets in a more equitable basis with Omaha and Sioux City, which were strong to higher Missouri markets. However, continue relatively high.

Sheep receipts are below normal in the west, and the east had a mere handful, making fresh advances in or hung up at nearly all points open for trading, and further advances before the quarantine is lifted are probable. The evident intention of killers being to encourage movement to permit them to supply the demands of the trade for the dressed product.

Receipts for the week to date at the four leading Missouri river markets total 70,000 cattle, 77,000 hogs and 81,000 sheep; decreases of 27,000 cattle, 54,000 hogs and 48,000 sheep from the total at six western points for like period last week.

Chicago's live stock market will reopen next Monday, when the present ten-day embargo expires by limitation. Nothing will be allowed to enter the yards until midnight Sunday.

FIGHTING STRATEGY WINS MANY BATTLES

British Troops Experts at Building Trenches to Draw Fire of Enemy.

(Correspondence of The A. P.)

London, October 11.—Modern fighting strategy, at first rather helpless before the aerial and artillery factors, is beginning to adapt itself to the new conditions and along the great Alsace battle front many fertile brains have been busy devising schemes to meet these problems. Probably the most useful work of the aeroplane has been the location of positions and consequent direction of artillery fire often resulting in terrible losses to the attacked army.

According to a distinguished London surgeon, now serving as a volunteer in the Army Medical Corps, the British troops have become adepts at building dummy trenches to attract the enemy's fire. These trenches are thrown up with great fidelity and dummy figures and guns are left in them patiently awaiting the German aeroplane scouts. Believing he has discovered a new position the aviator signals to the nearest German battery, and a storm of shells fall upon the unoccupied trenches. It is usually only after a great waste of valuable ammunition that the trick is discovered.

Another favorite device is the invention of a British signaler whereby a heliograph can be operated at a distance of two miles by means of a telegraph wire. This heliograph begins to send out messages according to code from headquarters staff and believing they have located the brains of the British army the German artillery devotes its attention to the spot marked by the flashes from the heliograph. Sometimes the heliograph is destroyed, but usually the operator ceases work when the first senses would remain in the vicinity. A new apparatus is set up in some position where the staff would be likely to remove should it be driven from the first selected place.

Along the front where the opposing trenches are within a few hundred yards of each other the allies have devised a system of tormenting the enemy by keeping them awake at night. Regular skirmish details are selected each night and in the skirmish line they advance as close as possible and pour in a rattling fire. The response is almost instant and in great volume as to indicate that the Germans believe a general attack is beginning. Several times during the night these tactics are repeated.

The surgeon who has just returned from the front reports that contrary to the usual belief the trenches are not very wet, but he believes that with the coming of the heavy winter rains conditions along the Alsace will become terrible. The tension is already so great that many have reached the snapping point until the insane ward at Netley is filled with officers and soldiers who have lost their reason when disease is added to the terror of battle.

One of the optimistic features of the situation is an improvement in the transport of the wounded from the battle front to hospitals in England. Two weeks ago it often took as long as three weeks to get the wounded from the scene of the fighting to Southampton and now the same trip is made in from three to four days. This speeding up has resulted in a great acceleration in the recovery of the dangerously wounded, for they reach the hospitals within the period of infection.

CHINA INSPIRING EXAMPLE FOR U. S. SAYS PEACE HEAD

That China's attitude toward military establishments furnishes an inspiring example to the United States is the statement of Edwin D. Mead, chief director of the World's Peace Foundation.

DOOR AND LATCH HANDLE

A Combination Which is Simple, Handy and Ornate.

The old-time door latch may be given a new lease of life under the impetus of a new invention which has been recently patented. The old-time latch has been in disfavor except for such humble uses as upon an out-of-the-way closet or a door in the cellar or attic. The new arrangement contained in the combination here-with displayed is likely to fill a demand for the reason that

DOOR AND LATCH HANDLE COMBINED.

It is simple and effective in its operation, not so unsightly and at the same time lends itself to some decorative possibilities. The construction and operation of the new device is clearly shown and it will be seen how the homey features of the old latch have been dispensed with and the principle of its construction retained.

Nation of Gem Owners.

Customs statistics show the people of this country are the most ardent admirers of diamonds in the world. Not only are they the largest importers of the gems, but they own practically one-half of the entire diamond supply of the world.

Like Aaron's Staff.

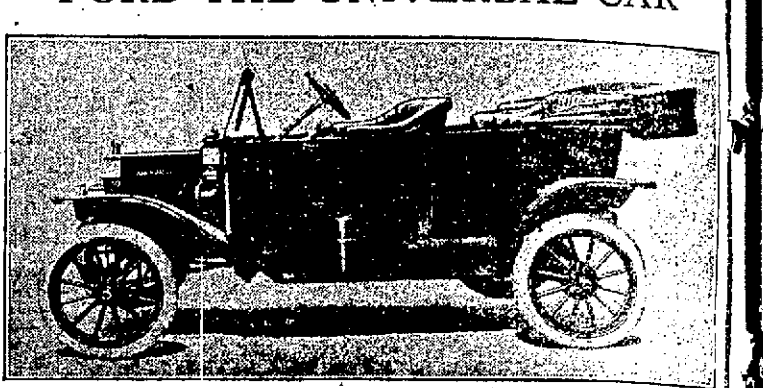

An unusual occurrence has marked the introduction of the electric light to the Devon (England) village of Knowle, where a wooden post, put in the ground to carry the wires, has taken root and is making a vigorous growth of greenery.

"Israel" Angel of Music.

Israel or Israfil, in Mohammedan mythology, was the angel of music, who possesses the most melodious voice of all God's creatures. This is the angel who is to sound the resurrection trumpet, and will ravish the ears of the saints in Paradise. Israfil, Gabriel and Michael, were the three angels that warned Abraham of Sodom's destruction. In the Koran we read: "and the angel Israfil, whose heart-strings are a lute, and who has the sweetest voice of all God's creatures."
